Website Highlights

- We were recently featured on the Rice Department of Bioengineering website!
- See pictures of our prototypes, Fluffy and Cerberus!
- Read about our second Outreach Day on April 9th, 2006!
- Download our new Team Photo!
- Ask the Ninja a question!

Welcome to the High Performance Ninjas website! We are a bioengineering senior design team at Rice University working on a new way to help bone fractures heal in space. Our specific design is an actively dynamized external fixation device. To find out more about our team and our design, click the links above to get started!

For kids, you should probably head over to our Ask the Ninja page! For parents, you might want to head over to the project page to get a feel for what our project is all about.

Questions or comments? Would you like more information? Send an email to us at hpn@rice.edu!

Say hello to our new patch!
